

McElroy Sworn In As Nation's Defense Sec'y

Eisenhower Awards
Medal of Freedom
To Ex-Sec'y Wilson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Neil H. McElroy, Cincinnati soap manufacturer and advertising expert, was sworn in today as defense secretary at a White House ceremony attended by President Eisenhower.

McElroy, 52, succeeds Charles W. Wilson who is retiring to private life. He becomes the sixth secretary since the Defense Department was established by the Armed Services Unification Act of 1947.

Before McElroy was sworn in the cabinet room of the White House, Eisenhower awarded Wilson the Medal of Freedom, citing him for nearly five years of "positive leadership, sound judgment and unceasing efforts... major factors in strengthening the security of the United States and its Allies against aggression."

"Under his guidance, the effectiveness of the armed forces of the United States has been greatly increased," the citation said. "Their strategic deployment to endangered parts of the world has been a major factor in the preservation of peace."

Pinning the red, blue, striped ribboned medal on Wilson's coat lapel, Eisenhower said the citation "was a lot of words to tell you we deeply appreciate what you have done."

After McElroy was sworn in by White House administrative officer, Percy E. Nelson, the President shook hands with the new defense secretary and laughingly said: "Well, welcome to the Cabinet. You are now a bureaucrat."

McElroy, since shortly after he was nominated for the defense post on Aug. 19, began orienting himself for the new job by spending most of his time at the Pentagon or inspecting military installations in this country.

Gov. Stratton Building New Lodge on Farm

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Gov. Stratton is building a new lodge on a 100 foot bluff overlooking the Sangamon River on his farm north west of here, the United Press learned today.

The contractor for the lodge said its cost would be about $40,000, but an aide to the governor said the price would run less than that.

Construction of the lodge was started this week by Carl Rodemer, a Greenview contractor who specializes in "custom" houses.

Rodemer hoped to complete the lodge by Christmas, but Stratton said it might be April before the building was finished.

The lodge will be "a place to spend weekends or entertain our friends," Stratton said.

The lodge will be 40 feet by 70 feet and its exterior will be limestone and redwood. The bluff on which it is being built is situated at a bend in the river and thus persons atop the bluff get a good view up and down the river.

Stratton's farm totals about 530 acres, a large part of it in oak and other timber and unutilized land. A tenant operates the farm and lives in a house on it.

The governor has a herd of Aberdeen-Angus cattle on the farm, plus a few sheep and geese and a number of riding horses.

He also has anchored in the river on the farm a small, flatbottom houseboat powered by an outboard motor.

The farm was quite run-down and much of it was overgrown with brush when Stratton bought it, but he has made many improvements on it, clearing brush, constructing small ponds for water conservation and putting a new roof on the barn.

The governor and his family spend much of their leisure time at the farm, riding horses and cruising on the river in their houseboat.

Shawnee Forest, Scott Air Force Plan Co-Operation on Fighting Fires

Fire control officers of the Shawnee National Forest in Illinois and Missouri and the Clark and Mark Twain National Forests in Missouri have planned co-operative action with Scott Air Force Base officials in fighting forest fires, L. P. Neff, Shawnee National Forest supervisor, announced here today.

"Although Scott Air Force base near Belleville is designed to furnish air transport service and training for military personnel, forest fires on National Forest land are enemies of the United States and the Air Force is anxious to stop them," Mr. Neff said. "Scott Air Force planes will transport United States Foresters in this control work."

Mr. Neff said that plans call for use of Scott Air Force planes in emergency periods of low visibility and dry and windy weather when the normal Forest Service organization of wardens, lookouts and fire fighters is in need of air transportation to scout fires or to spot new ones which are out of range of the lookouts.

"Radio communication from Air Force planes to ground crews or lookouts was tried and found very satisfactory," Mr. Neff stated. "Next will be the actual observation training of Forest Service observers using military planes and pilots."

"The supervisors of the National Forests are very pleased to have United States Air Force support their most important job of protecting the nation's national resources."

Jerry Klaviva, in charge of fire control in the Shawnee Forest headquarters here, said today that so far this fall there have been a few forest fires on the Missouri side of the Shawnee Forest but none to his knowledge in Illinois.

"However," he stated, "if there is no moisture during the next week, the fire hazard will be very great. I wish to caution people to exercise care in burning, not only now but throughout the fall months."

Regional Officials Here to Inspect Shawnee Forest

James K. Vessey, assistant regional forester, and Donald W. Smith, inspector from the regional office at Milwaukee, arrived in Harrisburg Monday to make a general integrating inspection of the Shawnee National Forest in Illinois and Missouri.

The two will be here through Oct. 25.

Following discussions here with Supervisor Larry P. Neff, the inspection of the Forest will follow.

Mr. Neff said the whole purpose of the inspection is to determine: "Is the Forest Service doing what it ought to be doing? Can it be done better?"

Mr. Vessey will talk before the Harrisburg Rotary club here the evening of Nov. 14.

110 Pints of Blood Donated at Bloodmobile Visit; Only 40 Short

Saline County only fell short 40 pints of blood when the bloodmobile was in Harrisburg on Oct. 2. The quota for the day was 150 pints and 110 pints were collected. There were 76 donors registered to give and only 105 kept their appointments and 21 donors came in who had not registered, making a total of 126 people who tried to donate.

Mrs. Warren Tuttle, chairman of volunteers, reports the volunteers serving the Red Cross chapter in addition to the bloodmobile staff were as follows:

Hill to Announce School Board Members Soon

Gratton Hill, the Eldorado city school district's one-man school board, said today he hoped to announce his six appointees to the board of education before the end of this week.

The appointments will be made to replace six men who resigned after the dispute which involved the closing of the second and fourth grades and their reopening following a conference between board members, a Lincoln school patrons committee with County School Superintendent acting as moderator.

Hill said he was hoping to name a board consisting of two members from each of the three school areas of the town: Washington, Lincoln and Jefferson. He also said he was seeking to choose three Democrats and three Republicans because "we don't want any politics on the board."

"The schools are functioning well right now and we want them to function as they are," Hill continued. "We are not going to make any changes as far as we can determine at present."

Hill yesterday was informed by C. R. Gardner, county superintendent of schools, that he has the power to fill the vacancies on the board, according to the statutes and advice Gardner had received from N. E. Hutson, legal adviser in the Office of Public Instruction at Springfield.

Harrisburg Kiwanis Club Observing 35th Anniversary

The Harrisburg Kiwanis club this month is observing its 35th anniversary. President Richard Davenport of the Harrisburg club has received a letter from H. Park Arnold, Kiwanis International president, praising the Harrisburg club for its 35 years of Kiwanis activity and the benefit it has been to the community. The Harrisburg club was established on Oct. 20, 1922.

At the club's regular meeting last night announcement was made that the ladies' night divisional fellowship meeting will be held next Tuesday evening at the Ly-Mar hotel in Herrin. The meeting will begin at 7 o'clock and Harrisburg club members and their lady guests will meet at the Masonic temple at 6 p. m. to attend the Herrin meeting in a group. A bus will take the group to Herrin.

Bob Rushing was in charge of the program last night and introduced Sam Bryden, deputy state fire marshal, who discussed safety measures in observance of Fire Prevention week. Bryden, who is from Flora, urged all business people to inspect their places of business to check the wiring, basements, storage places for fire hazards.

"If in doubt feel free to ask the advice of fire marshals," he stated.

Mitchell Golish and Marvin Barnett were introduced as new members of the Kiwanis club during the meeting and Mike Woolcott were guests from the HTHS Key club.

Freddie Brantley, 11, Dies At His Home in Ledford

Freddie Brantley, 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brantley of Ledford, died in his home shortly before noon today. Freddie has been ill for several weeks with cancer and on Sept. 16, there was a picture of him on his horse, "Fury," in The Daily Register, accompanying a statement of appreciation from his family to those who helped to get him to the Mayo clinic in Rochester for observation and for the many expressions of hope for his recovery. His brother, Paul Gene Brantley, is a student at HTHS.

The body is in the care of the Miller funeral home in Carrier Mills and will be taken to the family home to lie in state at 7 p. m. today. Funeral plans will be announced later.

At Fleck Trial

Prosecutor Is Threatened with Jail During Argument with Judge

CHICAGO (AP) — An assistant state's attorney in the conspiracy trial of Charles J. Fleck was threatened with jail during an argument with the judge.

Attorney Abbey Blattburg Tuesday charged Criminal Court Judge Henry W. Dieringer with "being unfair" in his rulings. These rulings, Blattburg said, have resulted in only three jurors being selected in the trial of the former Cook County public administrator.

Fleck is under indictment in connection with the estate of Frank J. Rozanski, a Polish immigrant who died without leaving a will in 1954. Mrs. Helen Campbell, who claimed the estate, later admitted she was not Rozanski's daughter.

The dispute between Dieringer and Blattburg began when the attorney attempted to ask jurors if they were acquainted with Fleck.

a political friend of Gov. Stratton, or any of the other defendants in the case.

"I'm not going to allow you to go into the political aspects," Dieringer said.

In that case, Blattburg said, he didn't know just what he could do. "If you don't know what to do that's your tough luck," Dieringer said. "I'm not running your case."

"No, not much," Blattburg shouted.

"If you don't stop it," Dieringer warned "you'll find yourself in county jail. Everytime I make a ruling against you I hear some nasty remark."

The two finally went to the judge's chambers. It was later agreed Blattburg could question the prospective jurors on any relationships with the defendants.

Carry Priority Label

Probers Ask Pentagon for Missile Data for Senate Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators spurred by Russia's Sputnik, began asking the Pentagon for missile data today in what could become the most important investigation of the coming session of Congress.

Informed sources said Defense Department agencies were getting requests from the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee for the latest information on U. S. missile programs. The requests carried a priority label, they said.

The same government sources said the Central Intelligence Agency will be asked for its best appraisal of the Soviet's missile program which zoomed Russia's earth-circling satellite into its orbit last weekend.

"Complete" inquiries asked

The subcommittee's quiet call for information came as one of its members said the full Senate Armed Services Committee should hold "complete" hearings on the question. Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) recalled that the full committee conducted the widely publicized investigation of former President Truman's dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Symington, a long-time critic of the administration's handling of missile programs, wired his views to Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) of the Armed Services Committee. Russell disclosed Monday the staff of the Preparedness Subcommittee was launching a study.

Russell, advising Symington the Preparedness Subcommittee staff would assemble "all available facts" and the study should help determine "the wisest course to pursue."

Russell's statement made it clear the future course of the committee's missile investigation will depend on the staff study. Symington's statement — plus the concern voiced by other committee members — made it equally clear only a full-scale investigation will satisfy some congressional leaders.

Several senators—chiefly Democrats—have criticized the progress of U. S. military scientific development as a result of the Soviet feat. Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) adding his voice to the criticism Tuesday, charged the administration had "dawdled" on its satellite program and let the Russians "beat us at our own game" of scientific achievement.

Blames Faubus

President Hopeful Federal Troops May Be Withdrawn at Little Rock

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he is very hopeful that federal troops can be withdrawn from Little Rock's Central High School soon.

He made the statement at his news conference when asked if he agreed with Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) that the time was "rapidly approaching" when the situation would calm down enough for local officials to handle it.

Eisenhower said he certainly was very hopeful that that would be the case. As soon as local officials say that they have the thing right in their hands, he said, the federal government would have no other function at the school.

The President indicated belief that there would have been no trouble in integrating the school if Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas had not called out the National Guard to prevent it.

When asked if he believed that was the case, Eisenhower first said he was being asked to speculate. But he added that integration had started peacefully at other Arkansas schools and said he didn't know of any particular reason why it would have been different at Little Rock if Faubus hadn't intervened.

All but about five minutes of the 33-minute news conference was devoted to the satellite and missile programs of Russia and the United States.

On that subject, the President: —Announced that the United

Soble Receives 7-Year Sentence For Conspiracy

NEW YORK (AP) — Master spy Jack Soble, guilty of a crime that could have meant the electric chair, today faced a relatively light term of seven years for conspiracy.

Soble, 55, evaded the more serious charge of espionage by pleading guilty to conspiracy. He told Federal Judge Richard H. Levett last week he would never be able to forgive himself for the 15 years he spent as a U. S. boss of a Soviet espionage ring.

Levet, taking into account Soble's remorse and the aid he has given in uncovering other spy activity, Tuesday imposed the comparatively light sentence.

At the same time, Levett cut the 5 1/2 year terms imposed earlier on Soble's aides, his wife, Myra, and Jacob Albaum.

Mrs. Soble, 52, pleaded she was only a wife doing what her husband asked, but her request for probation was denied. Albaum, 64, complained he was old and sick. His sentence was reduced to five years.

All three were exposed by former Hollywood director and composer Boris Morros, himself an American, counterspy for 10 years. They were arrested together Jan. 25 and pleaded guilty to conspiring to transmit U. S. military, economic and government secrets to Russia.

Sees No Threat To Security by Soviet Progress

Doubts Russia Has Any Scientific
Advantage Over U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower announced today that the United States will start firing earth satellites into outer space in December.

Eisenhower told his news conference that in his opinion, based on long conferences with American scientists, the Russian satellite now circling the earth poses no threat to American security.

The President said, however, that the rocket which propelled the Russian satellite more than 500 miles above the earth's surface means that Soviet scientists have in their possession a very horrible thrust.

He also seriously questioned the fact that the Russian satellite weighed more than 180 pounds. He said that if this was true it was a source of great astonishment to American scientists.

The President said that in a political sense the Soviet Union by firing the first earth satellite, had possibly gained a world political advantage. But he doubted whether Russia had gained any scientific advantage over the United States.

As for the Russian claim that the Soviet Union had successfully fired an intercontinental ballistic missile, the President said that government did not know the details of the Russian ICBM test and that the measurement of its success was a matter of accuracy on hitting a target.

He said that if the Russian had fired an ICBM and returned it to a specific target area it was undoubtedly a great accomplishment—if done.

The President told newsmen that the first American satellite to be fired in December would not carry intricate instrumentation but would be sent in outer space as a test vehicle.

He said several similar satellites probably would be fired into space before the United States puts up an artificial moon with complicated instrumentation.

Says U. S. Not Lagging
"As to the Soviet satellite," the President said in a prepared statement distributed at his news conference, "we congratulate Soviet scientists upon putting a satellite into orbit."

Later, under questioning, Eisenhower said scientists had long known that it was possible to put a satellite into orbit around the earth, but that it was a different

Price Explains Contract Clauses

Guy Price, business manager of Local 896, Retail Clerks International Association, today said he wished to explain the assistant manager clause in the new contract ratified this week, that it was not clarified sufficiently in yesterday's newspaper account.

Price said the contract defines the assistant manager as one who will not deprive any employee of his work, and that no present employee now belonging to the union and named assistant manager shall be excluded from the union.

Price also contended that the new contract puts the Harrisburg clerks about even with competing towns, since the hours have been cut from a six to a five and a half day week.

FLAMEOUT OF POLITICAL COMETS

It seems a long time since British Laborite Aneurin Bevan was loudly in the news. He got a small notice recently when he was re-elected treasurer of his party.

Wearing his leftist sympathies as a bright banner, Bevan has made practically a career out of damning the United States. We used to worry a good deal about this when it looked as if he might one day come to power as Britain's prime minister.

But that day looks more and more remote now. There is a certain category of politician which practices a kind of self-cannibalism. Men in this category eventually fall victim of the very personal traits which at first appear to be the source of their strength and power.

It's been that way with Bevan. The fiery orator blazed his way to the top like a comet. But then he began to be consumed in his own excesses. Gradually he fell into discredit. Today, while he hangs on, he is a secondary figure a long distance from enjoying any real measure of general public trust.

A politician who would make it all the way had better find some other footsteps to trail.

Tails of comets always trail from the head in a direction away from the sun.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON SAYS:
U. S. Lost Satellite Race Through Army-Navy Rivalry; Russians Used Discarded Army Satellite Plan; U. S. Scientists Want To Brand The Moon.

WASHINGTON. — The brass hats aren't going to admit it, but the United States probably would have beat Soviet Russia in launching the earth satellite if it hadn't been for a military hassle inside the Pentagon similar to that which resulted in the court-martialing of Col. John Nickerson.

Added to this inter-service row were the retarding factors of a curtailed budget plus the fact that McCarthy-type investigations discouraged scientists from working for the government.

Six weeks ago, on August 31, this column flatly reported: "Russia will launch the artificial satellite ahead of us. This may be shot into space as early as September 17, the 100th anniversary of Konstantin Tsiolkovsky's birth. Tsiolkovsky has been publicized in Russia as 'father of space flights'."

Actually, the Russians came very close to their September 17 target. They were 17 days late. On September 17, being not quite ready, they made an announcement that it would be launched soon. It went into the air October 4.

It was announced at the White House that we were in no race with Russia. This, however, is just not true. Actually we were in a desperate race. Both the Defense Department and the White House fully appreciated the tremendous psychological advantage of getting a satellite into the air first, and we had set our target date either July, August or September of this year.

However, the Eisenhower administration, knowing that of late we were lagging badly behind Russia, deliberately covered up the fact. This column reported on August 31: "Our top officials have known for three months that Russia has fired an intercontinental missile about 4,500 miles from Kolguev Island in the Arctic to the Sea of Okhotsk in the north-west Pacific."

Today, following the Russian satellite launching, officials now admit that Russia must have had a successful ICBM in order to launch it.

ARMY VS. NAVY

Here is the backstage Pentagon hassle which helped us to lose out to Russia regarding man's first break with the planet earth.

In 1954, the U. S. Army at Redstone Arsenal, Ala., was working on "Project Orbiter" under the direction of Dr. Fred Singer of the University of Maryland. The actual name of Army's earth satellite was "Minimum Orbital Unmanned Satellites of Earth," or "Mouse."

The Army was making excellent progress when Pentagon politics intervened, and the project was turned over to the Navy. The Mouse was largely discarded and the Navy began working on its own "Vanguard." New designs were drawn up.

Meanwhile, Dr. Singer's discar-ed Mouse design was pretty much made public for anyone to read about—including the Russians. Life Magazine and various scientific journals carried blueprints. The satellite was not considered a military weapon.

Ironically, as the Russian satellite zoomed across the United States bringing world kudos to Soviet science, American scientists say it is a "virtual carbon copy of our discarded Mouse, except much larger."

Whether the Russians copied it is not known. But certainly they had every opportunity to, merely by buying U. S. magazines.

Note—Reason for switching the satellite from the Army at Redstone to the Navy was partly the feeling that the Army leaned too heavily on German scientists; second, the fact that industry has little control over the Army's scientific operations. It was General Motors — Bell Telephone-Douglas Aircraft, according to Colonel Nickerson, that took the intermediate range missile out of the Army's hands at Redstone.

SLOW-MOVING VANGUARD

Here is what's been happening to the Navy's Project Vanguard. A total of $110,000,000 has already been spent, and two tests made. They were satisfactory. The satellite is a 3-stage affair, with the No. 2 and No. 3 stages now completed, but the all-important No. 1 stage — that necessary to get the satellite off the ground — still uncompleted.

This test was scheduled for one month ago, but has not come off.

One difficulty is that half a dozen or so government agencies are all in on Project Vanguard and it is so bogged down in government red tape that naval research people have recently been conferring privately with Dr. Werner Von Braun, the German expert at Redstone Arsenal. Von Braun has now told the Pentagon that the Army could launch the once discarded Mouse in two to four months.

BRANDING THE MOON

The United States has lost so much scientific face recently that government scientists are now determined to beat the Russians on at least one thing—reaching the moon.

They are now working on "Operation Fireside," a 4-stage research rocket which Ford will launch from a General Mills plastic balloon. The rocket will travel 4,000 miles into space, and by modifying the rocket, scientists believe they could add a 5th stage which would take it to the moon.

With this, they could put a dye-marker on the moon; in effect, brand the moon with a color which people on the earth could see.

"We could at least put a mark on the moon," remarked the scientist, "by which the world would know that Kilroy got there first."

However, this would cost an additional $200,000 and scientists say that it's a tough job these days getting through the Budget Bureau's dollar curtain.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Opportunity knocks many times. We must not fret and fume about the opportunity, that knocked when we were not ready. We cannot go through life crying about the accidentally spilt milk. Worries about the "ifs" of the past are foolish destroyers of life's purpose.

Each moment is new. Each day offers opportunities as great, or greater, than the ones we let slip. In fact, opportunity is more inside of us than outside of us. We must be more alert to the knocking on the inner doors of our souls than to the outer knocking on the doors of material endeavor.

If we answer the inner calls of God when He speaks to the conscience we shall enjoy inner peace and greater material reward than if we ignore the soul and jump at the chance for material gain.

Our greatest opportunity is to serve God. We shall discover that the by-products of service are accord and oneness with God's will. When we accept this reward we shall find that although human success accompanies the inner satisfaction, the worldly gain seems less significant.

Calendar Of Meetings

There will be a stated meeting of I. O. O. F. Midway lodge 942 at 7 p. m. Thursday. All members and the staff are urged to attend and visitors are welcome. Andrew McDaniel, N. G.

There will be a stated meeting of Harrisburg Chapter No. 671, Order of Eastern Star, Thursday at 7:30 p. m. Irene Shaw, W. M.

Midweek service at the First Methodist church will be this evening at 7 o'clock in Hall chapel.

The Flower Show, sponsored by the Evergreen and Saline County Garden clubs of Harrisburg, will be open to the public from 1-5 p. m. Thursday. There will be one booth selling aprons, plants, pin holders and other small articles to help defray the expenses of the show. There is no admission charge.

The Ruth Ford circle of the First Baptist church will meet in the education building for a chili supper at 6:30 p. m. Thursday.

Powerful A-Blast by Britain

MARALINGA, Australia (AP) — Britain today exploded an atomic bomb so powerful that it "sun-burned" newsmen five miles from the blast.

The bomb, reported to be a tactical weapon ready for immediate use, was suspended from three balloons 1,000 feet in the air over the desolate Maralinga testing grounds in western Australia.

The blast apparently was more powerful than British and Australian scientists had expected.

It sent two scorching shock waves over the desert-like area the first greater than the second. As the heat rose in the present, newsmen felt their hair crackling.

IN THE Service

Pvt. Gerald D. Dowdy, son of Theodore Dowdy, 1116 South Feazell street, is scheduled to arrive in Germany early this month from Fort Sill, Okla. He will be assigned to the 532 Field Artillery Observation Battalion in Karlsruhe. He entered the army in March 1957 and received basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. His mother, Mrs. Lois Mainer, lives in Mattoon.

Winter fur fashions take on an added elegance and a new feeling of luxury this year. Bolero (left) of Norwegian blue fox is cut with sailor collar and elbow length sleeves. It's for wear afternoon or evening. A coat of great beauty is this one (center) in beige-dyed Brazilian otter cut with low martingale back belt and flat mink collar. Little jacket of desert gold mutation mink (right) has deep squared-off collar. Fur is worked horizontally to create, with sleeve cut, a wide cape effect. All designs shown here are by Revillon. Emphasis here is on the pale colors which bring out the beauty of the fur.

U. S. Considering Speedup in Missile Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy said today the United States is considering a speedup in its ballistic missile programs.

Four hours after taking office as the nation's sixth defense secretary, the former Cincinnati, Ohio, soap manufacturer, told newsmen that "Russian missile programs have made it seem not unimportant to us to end bottlenecks" in the American projects.

The new secretary said the speedup would probably take the form of increased testing, more overtime work at missile centers, and more rapid evaluation of missile data.

He said the goal was to "iron out bottlenecks." He said "we aren't thinking in terms" of much greater defense expenditures.

Princess Grace Honored

MONACO (AP)—Princess Grace of Monaco has received a special "golden hat" award from an American millinery trade association as "the best chapeau woman in the world."

Drew Dudley, representing the United States Milliners Union, Tuesday presented the princess, formerly Hollywood's Grace Kelly, with a golden diadem decorated with flowers.

U. S. Willing for East-West Talks on Space Object Controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that the United States would be willing to take part in an East-West study of international controls on outer space objects if U. S. Allies agree.

The President emphasized at a news conference that the United States would be willing to change its previous policy now and study a separate agreement with the Soviet Union on outer space missiles and other objects.

The United States until Tuesday had insisted that such an agreement be part of an overall first step disarmament agreement with Russia.

Fined on Charges of Cruelty to Animals

Jackie Guley of Carrier Mills yesterday was fined $3 and costs after he was found guilty of cruelty to animals following a trial held in the court of Justice of the Peace John Brit Pierson.

The charges were filed and pressed by Humane society officials after neighbors had complained to the society that Guley's dogs had been abandoned and neglected. The society picked up the animals and trial evidence was that they were in bad condition.

Rites Thursday at Eldorado for Infant

The funeral of Rebecca Tyler, 14 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tyler of Streator, killed in an automobile accident near Tulsa, Okla., Monday, will be held in the Free Methodist church of Eldorado at 2 p. m. Thursday. Rev. Ted Wemette, pastor of the church, will officiate and burial will be in the Wolf Creek cemetery. The body will lie in state in the Martin funeral chapel until the funeral.

West Ledford School Carnival Postponed

Due to the death of Freddie Brantley, 7th grade pupil at West Ledford school, the carnival which had been planned for Friday, Oct. 11, has been postponed. Carl Beggs, principal of the school, announced today.

Faubus Claims He Can Support His Charges

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus claimed today he has names, addresses and telephone numbers of persons who can support his charge that soldiers enforcing integration at Central High School invaded the privacy of the girls' dressing rooms.

He indicated that his informants included students, teachers and possibly members of the military itself.

"I do not choose to release the names of the students at this time because they probably would be expelled," Faubus told a news conference.

"If I named a teacher or teachers they probably would be fired. If I name a soldier or soldiers they probably would be court-martialed."

He said this was "further proof" that military enforcement of integration and the presence of troops at the school is "impracticable."

He noted there had been "frantic denials" in Washington of his charge, originally made Monday to Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, federal troop commander here, that soldiers had accompanied Negro girl students into dressing rooms.

The White House, on the same day the charge was made public, denounced them "completely untrue and completely vulgar."

Faubus said today that the Washington attitude is "an indication" of the "hysteria now prevalent in our national administration."

Funeral Services at Equality Thursday For Mrs. Nora Hinson

The funeral of Mrs. Nora Katherine Hinson, 71, of Equality, who died Monday evening, will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday in the Equality Methodist church. Rev. Lawrence Gibson of Eldorado, will officiate, and burial will be in Elmwood cemetery. The body is in the care of the Cox funeral home of Ridgway and was taken to the family home to lie in state today.

Fringe Benefits No Longer 'Fringe'

MONTICELLO, Ill. (AP)—So-called "fringe" benefits aren't "fringe" anymore, they average about 20 per cent of the nation's total wage bill, a management consultant said today.

Robert R. Doherty, Chicago, made the estimate here while discussing the topic at an industrial management institute sponsored by the University of Illinois bureau of business management and the Illinois Manufacturers' Assn.

Doherty said today's "fringe" benefits range from holidays, vacations, insurance and pensions to coffee breaks and even club memberships and stop options for executives.

He estimated the 1955 cost of such so-called fringe benefits was about 36 billion dollars.

Rabies Show Decline in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Rabies is apparently on the decrease, according to the Illinois Department of Agriculture. Records in the department's Division of Livestock Industry show only 77 positive cases reported in animals thus far in 1957 by state laboratories.

Prior to enactment of the state rabies law (effective June 1, 1954), positive cases of rabies in Illinois ran from 280 to 384. The law, providing for compulsory vaccination of dogs against rabies, is credited for the decrease.

It requires that dogs not confined at all times be vaccinated against rabies each calendar year by a licensed veterinarian. About a quarter of a million dogs were vaccinated against rabies in Illinois last year. The law also allows stray dogs to be impounded and humanely destroyed.

Records show that there has not been a human death in Illinois from rabies since 1954 when a 2-1/2-year-old Thornton boy died about seven weeks after being bitten by a dog. The infrequency of human deaths is largely because of the full scale war on the disease waged by the Illinois Department of Public Health.

The health department reports that 1,422 rabies treatment packages were distributed last year. A package contains seven doses of vaccine.

These shots are said to be no more painful than any other type of shot and are administered with an ordinary hypodermic needle. Reactions may vary, however, according to the size of the injection and the patient's system. In some cases the inoculations can make a person quite sick.

Although human rabies is rare, the war to keep the disease from infecting animals is a continuing fight, according to Stillman Standard, director of the Illinois Department of Agriculture.

Much of the loss of livestock from rabies results from rabid wildlife attacking farm animals, he said. A positive diagnosis of rabies is determined by the presence of negri bodies in the brain tissues of animals which died from rabies.

According to Standard, rabies in Illinois is more prevalent in dogs, cats, cattle and skunks, although it may be contracted by any warm-blooded animal such as swine, horses, squirrels, foxes and raccoons, as well as man.

Rabies can be transmitted to a person or another animal by biting or even through an open wound licked by a rabid animal. When rabies develops in humans or animals, death is inevitable. The disease usually develops 10 to 90 days after a bite or infection.

Lawrence Township Voters Approve Library, Swimming Pool Bonds

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Lawrence Township voters have approved issuance of $240,000 in general obligation bonds for construction of a new library and swimming pool here.

Both proposals carried by a margin of almost 2-1 in a special election Tuesday.

Completion of the $90,000 swimming pool and the $150,000 library is expected sometime in 1958.

Queen Elizabeth to Dine on Some Typically American Dishes During Tour

By Gay Pauley
United Press Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UP) — Queen Elizabeth, whose parents once ate hot dogs with a president, also will dine on some typically U. S. dishes on her forthcoming tour.

The people planning the menu calendar have included foods from for the final feast on the royal Long Island to California. But the menu will hardly be as "American as apple pie." No pie. Also, no ice cream. Not because the queen has been dieting to drop about 10 pounds.

"It is just that she loathes ice cream," said a British Information Services source.

The 31-year-old queen and Prince Philip will be dined and wined from the time they reach Ottawa Oct. 12 until they depart from New York for London in the wee small hours of Oct. 22. In that 10-day period, there are enough lunches, teas, receptions and dinners (at least five classed as state) to put a bulge on any royal waistline.

Unless, that is, the menus are kept short.

"We've been told that the Queen and Philip both want simple meals," said Claude C. Philippe, vice president and executive catering manager of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The hotel is an old hand at feeding royalty. Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, the Shah of Iran, Queen Mother Elizabeth of Britain, Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, the King of Sweden, all have been guests.

The hotel will cater Mayor Robert Wagner's lunch for the royal couple (some 2,000 guests expected). The tea served when the pair visits the Empire State Building, and the last feast of the tour—a dinner given by the English Speaking Union and Pilgrims (5,000 guests).

"We have not been told to watch caloric count on the menus," said Philippe. "But the Queen let us know she wanted only three courses for lunch."

"Dinner will be four courses... Hardly the royal banquets of other days. But royalty has to work harder now... more to do in discharge of their duties than 50 years ago when a 12-course meal was the rule."

The final dinner of the tour will feature a soup course with turtle from South Carolina, striped bass from Long Island and a fruit desert including nectarines from Record-Breaking Fire Loss in U. S.

BOSTON, Mass. (AP) — For the second successive year, the United States has suffered a record breaking total fire loss, it was announced today.

Last year's total loss was $1,231,576,000, an increase of $90,808,000 over 1955, the National Fire Protection Assn. said.

A 32-million-dollar increase in large-loss building fires and a 40-million-dollar rise in aircraft losses contributed to the poor record.

California and cherries from Oregon. The entire will be beef, probably because the Duke of Edinburgh likes beef.

During 1956 there were 1,940,150 fires in the United States, 37,800 fewer than in 1955.

Building fires totaled 824,400 and caused $1,016,000,000 damage last year. An additional 1,115,750 fires not involving buildings accounted for $215,576,000 loss.

Here are the leading causes of last year's fires:

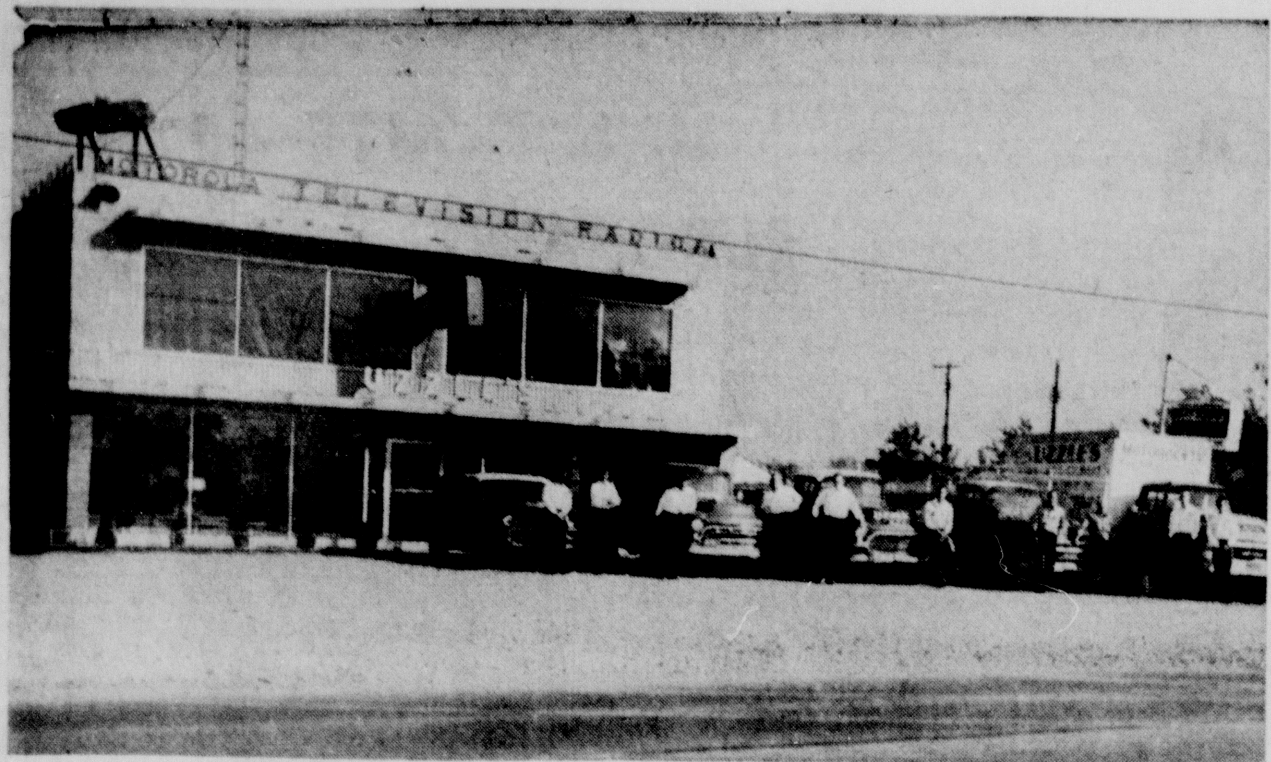

Careless smoking and matches — 127,000 fires.
Defective or overheated heating and cooking equipment—108,500.
Electrical—106,200.
Rubbish—57,000.
Flammable liquids—47,500.
Lighting—45,200.

THE UZZLE BUILDING—now and then. The Uzzle brothers, John, Roy and Cecil, are observing the 20th anniversary of their business with a big sale at their modern store, above, in Eldorado. The present furniture appliance, TV and radio retail store, plus electronics repair shop, is the result of a steady growth of a business started as a radio repair service in 1937 in a small building, lower photo, in Equality.

Uzzle Furniture and TV Mart Marking 20th Year with Anniversary Sale

Uzzle Furniture and TV mart, Eldorado, is this week marking with a big anniversary sale, their 20th year in business. Starting out in 1937 as a radio repair service organization, Uzzles have earned a business expansion that mushroomed from the time they began.

Their Eldorado store, which is one of the most modern furniture stores in southern Illinois, has been constantly improved since it was opened three years ago this month. Occupying 16,000 feet of floor space and furnishing employment to 16 people, the Uzzle Furniture and TV Mart has become widely known in southern Illinois.

Operating the business are John (Junior) Uzzle, Roy and Cecil Uzzle. John and Roy were trained in electronics by their oldest brother, Everett, who died in 1951 and who was the founder of a radio repair service which began at Equality, across the street from the high school in 1937.

In 1942 they moved to Carrier Mills and in 1945 went into the retail furniture and appliance business. Television was added during World War 2, and in 1950 they bought and occupied the Snowdon Roper building in Carrier Mills, which they vacated after completion of their new building at Eldorado.

Emphasis has been given repair service by the Uzzles, who operate six service trucks equipped with two-way radio communication enabling repairmen to receive and transmit orders wherever they are, without loss of time and at a material saving in expenses.

In their retail business Uzzles are agreeable traders who have been known to swap hogs, cattle, autos, pony carts, and farm machinery. Occasional oddities, which at the time a deal is made are considered "white elephants," have been known to pay for themselves with surprising speed.

Nationally known appliances and furniture, and equipment are featured. Two graduates of the Maytag school of appliances, a Hot Point factory school graduate, and University of Illinois radio and TV graduate are employed. Six in the service department have had from four to nine years' experience in electronics. John Uzzle, who is recognized as an authority in electronics in southern Illinois, also attended the Southern Illinois University vocational school.

Newest improvement to the Uzzle Furniture and TV Mart is the rearrangement of the display rooms for kitchen furniture and appliances, the Marine room and the warehouse, also the separation of the service department from the main office to the south wing of the building.

With every department spic and span and every employee ready for the party, Uzzles are looking forward to their anniversary sale, which begins Friday and will last three days.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS' BIGGEST football player is Jerry Thurman, 6-1, 340-pound junior tackle at the Norris City high school. Jerry had no trouble pitching Mike Petty, 100-pound freshman quarterback over his shoulder, and inquired "Where do you want me to carry him." Thurman, 16-years-old, moves well for a big man, wears a 52 size pants and 56 size jersey. Jerry and his teammates will play at Eldorado Friday night. (Register Photo)

High Flying Eagles to Play Scoreless Norris City Cardinals Friday Night

The two extremes in southern Illinois high school football scoring will be on display Friday evening when the Norris City Cardinals invade the home grounds of the Eldorado Eagles.

The Eagles are southern Illinois' highest scoring outfit with 214 points in four games, an average of 53 1/2 points per contest. On the other side of the picture is Norris City, the only southern Illinois school that has failed to score in the 1957 season.

And the dope has it that after Friday Eldorado will be more firmly established as the area scoring leader. And Norris City will still be a scoreless unit.

Norris City high school, playing only its second year of football and its first in varsity competition, is naturally lacking in experience.

Coach Charles E. Westphol, former University of Illinois varsity baseball player, says the team's spirit is good and the players are improving all the time. "After we get the Eldorado game out of the way, I believe there will be a big improvement in our play," he said.

Norris City's squad features southern Illinois' — and maybe the state's — biggest player.

A defensive tackle is 16-year-old Jerry Thurmond, who stands 6-1 and weighs 340 pounds. Jerry takes a size 52 pant and size 56 jersey.

The big guy is a junior. When he reported for football a year ago he tipped the scales at 300 and in the fall weighed 340 and in the words

Minnesota Guard Lineman of Week

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota guard Bob Rasmussen, who became a topflight Big Ten football player although he had no intentions of attending college, today was named United Press Midwest lineman of the week.

He was the second Gopher forward handed the honor in as many weeks. End Perry Gehring was the U. P. choice for the lineman title last week.

Rasmussen, hampered by a sprained ankle, was the main cog in a line that made two goal-line stands in the Gophers' squeaky 21-17 triumph over Purdue Saturday.

Tatum Named Coach of Week

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — He's such a pessimist that he would shed tears of fear if his boys were playing Vassar.

He won only two games in his new job last year and lost those when it turned out that one player was ineligible.

He suffered through the first losing season ever but allows in his thick Carolina drawl that "things have a way of evening up."

He's Jim Tatum of North Carolina, the United Press Coach of the Week after his Tarheels pulled a 13-7 upset of Navy, a two-touchdown favorite and possibly the best team in the East.

The colorful, 43-year-old Tatum, a native of McCall, S. C., is on the spot at Carolina, where he played tackle under Carl Snavely in the mid 1930's and served as head coach in 1942 before entering the Navy.

He became top man at Oklahoma in 1946 and started the Sooners dynasty which continues to this day. Then the soft-spoken Tatum moved on to Maryland for nine glorious years which produced one national champion (1953), five bowl teams and a reputation as a master of both the split T offense and every conceivable defense.

Big Jim returned home to Carolina last year and had the miseries. But his own ceaseless work and organizational ability has started to pay dividends.

Back in his service days, Tatum and Bud Wilkinson, the present Oklahoma coach, were assistants to Don Faurot, the old Missouri master, and perfected the split T at Iowa Pre-Flight

Dodgers Move to Los Angeles; New York Seeks to Lure National League Team

NEW YORK (AP) — New York, having lost the second of its National League teams when the Dodgers officially moved to Los Angeles Tuesday, began a campaign today to get a replacement.

Mayor Robert Wagner said he would appoint a committee to try to lure another National League team to New York — "I hope in time for the 1958 season."

That appeared to be forlorn hope, but it was possible. Under major league rules, New York still has three weeks to swing a deal, since Oct. 31 is the deadline. For a long time the Cincinnati Redlegs were the No. 1 candidate, but now Redleg owner Powell Crosley insists he won't sell to anyone who takes the franchise out of Cincinnati.

The Chicago Cubs, Pittsburgh Pirates and Philadelphia Phillies were other objectives as National League replacements, and there also was some talk that the Cleveland Indians, whose attendance is way down, might move to the borough of Queens — the Yankees are in the Bronx — as a second American League team.

The Yankees, of course, are strongly opposed. They will suggest to the December meeting of the major leagues that their franchise be extended to include all the boroughs of New York City except Brooklyn. The National League will oppose that, of course. National League President War-

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Fraley's follies and the weekend football "winners" — along with some of the inevitable "new records" which have been set in the World Series to date.

Game of the Week
Michigan State over Michigan — This is always one of those traditional dog fights. But the Spartans have too much speed, power and versatility for a Michigan eleven which has exploitable line weaknesses.

The East
Army over Notre Dame — And now for the new records.

Princeton over Penn — Most games (3) bravest outland hot-dogs.

Pitt over Nebraska — Most kisses (1) blown to crowd: Casey Stengel.

Colgate over Rutgers — Most games (3) both teams showed up at Milwaukee.

Also: Cornell over Syracuse, Dartmouth over Brown, Penn State over W. & M., Yale over Columbia, Harvard over Ohio U., Boston College over Dayton, Lehigh over Gettysburg and West Virginia over Boston U.

The South
Miami over North Carolina — Most time fixed cap, belt, pants and unmentionables: Lew Burdette.

Georgia over Tulane — Most times sung anthem at opener: Lucy Monroe.

Georgia Tech over LSU — Most somersaults, at Milwaukee, one game: Wes Covington.

Auburn over Kentucky — Most games, no left-handed shortstops. (Record held by many).

Also: Clemson over Virginia, Mississippi over Vanderbilt, Maryland over Wake Forest, Mississippi State over Arkansas State, South Carolina over Furman, Tennessee over Chattanooga, Villanova over VPI.

The Midwest
Iowa over Indiana — Most rabid fans, one inning: Milwaukee.

Minnesota over Northwestern — Most rabid fans, one game: Milwaukee.

Ohio State over Illinois — Most rabid fans, three games: Milwaukee.

Wisconsin over Purdue — Most rabid fans, one series: Milwaukee.

Also: Kansas over Iowa State, Holy Cross over Marquette, Detroit over Wichita, Cincinnati over Xavier.

The West
Navy over California — Most free peanuts, 1 press box: Milwaukee.

UCLA over Washington — Fewest free peanuts, 1 press box: New York.

Oregon State over Idaho — Most free hotdogs, 1 press box: Milwaukee.

Oregon over San Jose State — Most indigestion, 1 press box: Milwaukee.

Also: Washington State over Stanford, Colorado over Arizona and COP over Kansas State.

The Southwest
Oklahoma over Texas — Fewest runs, 1 game, Yankees (0); record held by many.

Rice over Duke — Most head-scratching on pinch hitters: Casey Stengel.

Baylor over Arkansas — Most shoe polish, 1 series: Nippy Jones.

Also: Texas Aggies over Houston, TCU over Alabama and Oklahoma State over Tulsa.

ARCHIE FOREVER — Now that he has thoroughly convinced the world he's never going to be old, even though some say he's 47, Archie Moore wants more light-heavyweight title opponents — and is talking of another shot at the heavyweight crown.

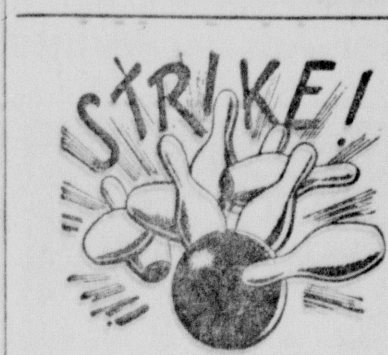

shadow of the new major league teams, must give up, too. For baseball's front offices, the season is just starting.

FIRE PREVENTION will be family business in the Roy Rogers home as well as in millions of other American homes during National Fire Prevention Week (October 6-12). The screen and TV star joins three of his children, Dusty, Dodie and Debbie in a fire prevention inspection tour of the family's California residence. Dusty, at 10 a full-fledged Junior Fire Marshal in the program sponsored as a public service by the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, holds a copy of the fall issue of the Junior Fire Marshal magazine which features a home inspection report for boys and girls. His adopted little sisters, Dodie, an American Indian, and Debbie, a Korean War orphan, are both just five and eligible for the first time for school and a chance to participate in the Hartford Fire's gigantic fire prevention and safety program.

Sixth Graders under Eugene Morris at the McKinley Grade School in Harrisburg, have been appointed Junior Fire Marshalls this year. Rings and Red Fire Chief hats like those pictured above have been distributed to the pupils by the HARKER MILEY INSURANCE AGENCY, who represent the Hartford Fire Insurance Company here in Harrisburg.

BUGS BUNNY

THE CANVAS DAGGER

by HELEN REILLY

now remembers where she had seen Grant Melville, the painter whose death might have been murder instead of an accident. He had been living in the house next to her Aunt Grace on Cape Cod the previous summer.

Grace was off to the south of France herself. "I'm flying tomorrow with the Jorgensons. You just caught me." She said that of course Sarah could have her house for as long as she wanted it. "And a car, you'll need a car—and that M. G. James foisted off on me is eating its head off in a garage."

Early the next morning the garage delivered the M. G. at Sarah's door. At 8:30 she called the hospital and talked to Zita's nurse. The news was encouraging. Zita was doing very well. If there was no setback she would be able to see visitors in three or four days. Meanwhile Sarah had remembered something else. She was sure, almost sure, that she had also seen Miss Dolwin, the thin, arty woman with the bangs, up there in Cornwall.

She would have liked to tell Tom Gillespie about it. Perhaps he'd ring her. But why should Gillespie call her? Circumstances not of his seeking had thrown them together momentarily. As far as he was concerned, the accident of their meeting was finished.

At 9:30 she slid behind the wheel of the little car and started north out of the city. She went over the Cornwall line at 3:15 on the bottom. Nearer and just beyond a church was the Victorian monstrosity in which Steven and Carlotta Task lived, which Carlotta had been trying to get into shape for years. She thought nothing of moving five or six tons of earth one place to another, and the stones she lugged happily would have daunted a stevedore. It was the only house they had been able to get that was near Steven's work, at the Coe and Bradford plant in South Cornwall.

Carlotta was there, in blue jeans and one of Steven's old shirts, hoeing industriously in a border in front of the rococo porch. "Sarah." She fetched up beside the car breathlessly. "This is marvelous, wonderful. Silva just brought your groceries and told me you were coming. He said you phoned from down the line. Wretch—why didn't you let us know?"

Sarah said she had only decided the night before and she hadn't had a minute. Sarah was fond of Carlotta, she adored Steven. So did a lot of other people, including a vast number of women. He was no Adonis, he was shortish and thick-set and by the wildest stretch of imagination couldn't be called handsome, but he had a terrific amount of life and force, and he knew how to laugh. Besides that he was extremely intelligent, and invariably kind.

Carlotta said she had a fresh pot of coffee on and linked an arm through Sarah's and they went up the path through the pine grove and into the house.

She said that there had been a spy scare at the radar station in September and cars had been stopped and searched for a day or two and it had all been very exciting, but nothing had come of it.

At 36 Carlotta still looked like a girl, with her trim, sturdy figure and thin, definitely boned face. She was neither pretty nor beautiful, but she had the freshness and eager, searching quality of the young.

"What a stunning suit." She stroked the tweed of Sarah's sleeve.

"It's old," Sarah said absently and asked about Grant Melville. Carlotta poured more coffee and sat down on a stool. She looked solemn. "He's dead, you know. He fell from a window in his house in New York and was killed instantly, three or four weeks ago. We were horribly shocked when we heard. He was up here painting part of the summer." He had been coming up to North Cornwall for years, he had a shack up in the hills, and then he married again but his wife didn't like roughing it and didn't like Cornwall, so they hadn't seen as much of him in recent years as they used to.

Presently they went over to the stone house and Sarah ran the car into the driveway and closed the gate. The alanthus trees and the locusts were leafless but the lawns were brilliantly green.

They went in by way of the kitchen. The fireplace and the beamed ceiling and the big black iron stove contrasted amusingly with the modern equipment, the white refrigerator, new sink, counters and cabinets Grace had had installed.

Sarah carried her bag through the living room and on into the bedroom that opened out of it at the front of the house. The old cherry-wood desk gleamed rudely in a corner, fat low chairs sat on either side of the hearth, the narrow bed was covered with a white candlewick; pictures, books, lamps—there had been nobody there since last summer, everything was just as she had left it. No, it isn't, Sarah thought ab-

"Lanterns of the Dead"

In the 12th century, "lanterns of the dead," small stone structures with lighted windows in the upper part, marked the position of a cemetery, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

There was something missing, some familiar object. . . She couldn't discover what it was. Back in the living room she had the same random impression of change. Weren't two or three chairs out of position?

Carlotta came in cheerfully from the kitchen. A thunderous crash cut across her words.

Symington Lists 5 Soviet Shocks

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) called Russia's satellite the fifth major scientific "shock" that Communist country has dealt the U. S. since the American atomic bomb monopoly in 1949.

Symington, speaking Monday night before Jewish War Veterans here, listed as previous "shockers" the atomic and hydrogen bombs, jet bombers and the intercontinental ballistic missile developed by Russia.

"Now comes the truth, the satellite," he said. "It proves that some of us have been wrong in our beliefs about the Russians. If our policy does not change we are in grave danger of losing our country."

Symington, former secretary of the Air Force, said American people are beginning to "wonder" over Washington's past confidence that the United States would take a strong lead in the satellite field. His words were echoed by Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., former Democratic congressman from New York, who called the successful satellite launching a "rude awakening" for this country.
